INFOSEC CERTIFICATIONS INCREASE YOUR PAY

“IT managers need to have security certifications that will enhance their standing as generalists, who will be prudent in any situation. But the time and effort is also a worthwhile investment that can lead to better pay.” ~ Peter H. Gregory, Computerworld (<http://www.computerworld.com>). “Are security certifications worth it?” (January 24, 2003).

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR YOUR NEXT INFOSEC CERTIFICATION*

The demand for Information Security is projected to increase by 40% in four years. Will your salary grow as fast? Gain a competitive advantage in the INFOSEC marketplace with your NSA INFOSEC Assessment Methodology (IAM) and/or NSA INFOSEC Evaluation Methodology (IEM) certification.

THE NSA IAM/IEM CERTIFICATION ADVANTAGE

- The NSA IAM and IEM certifications are two of the few government-sponsored Information Security certifications in the U.S.
- Expand on your repertoire of case-by-case security tools—learn the unique NSA IAM and IEM educational approach, which will teach you how to holistically address and improve an organization’s security culture.
- Become equipped to perform these standardized INFOSEC assessments in accordance with Federal Government mandates.

The University of Fairfax, in conjunction with Security Horizon, is scheduled to host the two-day NSA IAM and NSA IEM certification course(s) and four-day boot camp from June 12-15, 2007.

*Scholarships are still available for these highly respected, federally endorsed certifications. For more information, please click here or email me at jgoldmanK7@ufairfax.net.
